

Florida Newsclips

800-442-0332

Newsclipsonweb.com

Palm Beach Post

Daily

Circulation: 245,000

January 14, 2008

SPIRIT OF GIVING

Keiser students 'pack the sack' for wounded soldiers

Keiser University students purchased holiday cards and wrote personal messages to about 250 wounded soldiers recovering from injuries as a result of combat in Iraq and Afghanistan.

KEISER UNIVERSITY

The project, spearheaded by the Student Government Association, culminated in "packing the sack" for distribution to the "We Support Your Recovery" program at Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington, DC.

"I'm always impressed by the generosity and caring nature of Keiser University students," said Karin Cogswell, campus president. "About 60 percent of our student population is pursuing degrees in the medical field, and throughout their programs, they complete clinical trainings in hospitals, doctor's offices and nursing homes. I think the hands-on experiences influence them to come together in support of initiatives that help others who are suffering."

From left: (front) Natalie Giordano, Anthony Esposito, Lisa Wadas. (back) Ashley Miller, Tabitha Foreman, Jorge Rosario, Natalie Jordat, Sandra Rubbioli, Marina Harmon, Amber Poskitt-Jones, Camar Abutineh, Linda Jackson, Rachelle Nola, Christina Kummerfeldt, Leighton Clarke and Michele Waters

Card-signing stations were set up in the library, in the lobby and in the Student Services office to provide as many opportunities as possible for students who wanted to contribute.